BE PREPARED: Home Fires are Highest in Winter Months

Home fires occur more during winter months than any other time of the year; be prepared with a properly functioning smoke detector. It's important to regularly test your smoke detector to be sure the batteries are still working. Some people get in the habit of checking their smoke alarms at the same time they are changing their clocks for daylight savings time—that way they are sure to be doing it twice a year.

Keep in mind, if you live in an apartment or condominium, your neighbors may not be as careful as you are. Renters insurance can protect you from loss regardless of where a fire started.

Make a plan!

It's a good idea to have an emergency plan ready in case you need to quickly and unexpectedly evacuate your home. For people with disabilities, there may be additional considerations regarding what you need to take with you and how you will evacuate.

Think ahead about a safe, accessible exit from any room in your home depending on various locations a fire may start.

Consider what items you would absolutely need to have if an emergency occurred. This might include medications or health-related devices. It's a good idea to pack an emergency "go bag" and have it ready to grab and take with you. In addition to personal and medical items, you might want to include information like important phone numbers and a list of bank and credit card accounts.

Helping People Connect to Services

Disability Network Southwest Michigan's Information & Referral department serves as a central clearing house for people with disabilities who need information on disability issues or assistance in getting connected to services in their community. Thousands of people each year call or stop by our offices for assistance connecting to resources.

Meet Gretchen

Gretchen is a 60 year old woman who has difficulty hearing and speaking due to a stroke. Gretchen connected with Disability Network's Information & Referral department when her health care coverage lapsed. After Gretchen’s stroke, she was no longer able to read or use a computer or phone so she needed assistance navigating the complicated system of Michigan Department of Health and Human Services.

Disability Network’s Information & Referral staff was able to provide the one-on-one assistance Gretchen needed to contact her caseworker and determine which forms needed to be completed to reinstate her health care coverage. Through the process, Disability Network's Information & Referral staff advocated for Gretchen with her caseworker to eliminate the phone interview requirement since Gretchen was unable to use a phone. With the help of Disability Network, Gretchen was approved for the benefits she needed to remain independent in the community.

When we invest in disability, the entire community benefits. Join Disability Network Southwest Michigan in creating a diverse and inclusive community by investing in people with disabilities. We cannot do this important work without your support.
RISE UP!
Disability Resistance, History & Pride

Many of us in the disability community are unaware of the depth of our culture and history and feel shame and stigma instead of pride around our disability identities. Family, friends and human service professionals also have a lack of knowledge of disability history and struggle to find ways to support our journey to disability pride. Let’s change that!

Trigger by Susan Vaught
Jersey Hatch can’t remember why he tried to kill himself. Coming out of rehab for the first time in a year, Jersey must piece his life back together, step by painful step—from relearning to tie his own shoelaces, to graduating high school, to repairing old friendships. With a fresh, compelling, and unique literary voice, Susan Vaught thrusts readers directly into the bitterly funny head of Jersey Hatch. An eye-opening story that expertly navigates the triumph of family, the depths of despair, and the humor of the most mundane details of life.
